simple system is the Ideal Solution for the Handtmann Group

For more than four years now, the internationally-active Handtmann Group has been using simple system, the free-of-charge B2B procurement platform on the internet, as its reliable, cost-cutting and fast supplier of C-parts.

The Handtmann Group, with its 2,600 employees, is a leading company in the cast metal, machine, fittings, automation and system technology sectors. For Josef Scherl, who is responsible for the project planning of new buildings with Handtmann in der Service GmbH, the daily ordering from simple system has been a matter of course for a long time. "It was over four years ago that an employee of the Hagemayer Deutschland company introduced us to the benefits of a B2B procurement platform. An incredibly wide-ranging, comprehensive assortment of a huge variety of C-parts which are clearly arranged and easy to access along with an extremely reliable supply were the arguments which caught our attention at the time. Today, we can say that simple system has totally convinced us and that we now process the majority of our C-parts orders by means of this electronic ordering platform and with an upward trend too". Josef Scherl continues "thanks to simple system, we have been able to drastically reduce our C-parts supplier portfolio and this has had the very positive effect of saving us time and money".

No wonder then that now all the Handtmann Groups plants in Germany are connected to the free ordering platform and that the intensity of use is continually increasing.

Josef Scherl also wants to point out that simple system does not only show its strengths with large and complex orders, but also pleases with smaller and less complex ones. "Especially here, the free use, particularly easy application and great speed are the remarkable strengths of simple system".
